YOU, residents of the Bad River Watershed and friends, are the best authority on the normal course of life in the region. Many of the citizens in the watershed are concerned about potential risks to these treasured natural resources, and life as we know it, posed by Enbridge Line 5. The pristine waters and scenic peace as seen in this photo near Copper Falls cannot be taken for granted. Become a Citizen Monitor of your neighborhood starting now with the pre-permit work being done by Enbridge.

Storytelling is the oldest of all the arts across many cultures.

Storytelling connects us, helps us make sense of the world, and reinforces our commonly held values and beliefs.

We are at a critical time in protecting the waters and natural resources from the risks associated with Enbridge Line 5. It is time to tell your stories, to share with family and neighbors near and far, the stories honoring the experience of either life within or your visits to the watershed. Email grandkids, write letters to the editor, have a Zoom visit around the campfire, etc.
